For the apostle Paul, grace was not a theory. Grace was a living encounter with the living God of the universe.

Following Jesus is about a people who have been so wrecked by God's grace that all of life becomes this mission so that other people would know this grace.

God gives us a new identity, not based on what we achieve but on what we receive from Jesus.

To be a saint means that you are set apart for God's purposes.

The very holiness of Jesus is yours as a gift.

For many Christians, it's not about knowing new information. It's about remembering and embracing the old information that makes us new.

Whatever Jesus requires, He supplies.

Grace is not dependent on your behavior.

Grace removes our guilt.

Fellowship means to participate in. We are participating in communion and union in the redemptive purposes of God.

We don't need to do more; we don't need to try harder; we don't need to get smarter. We need to receive more and more grace.

In our crazy world the cross looks foolish, but it's actually God's power.

Jesus is a continuously saving kind of God. Salvation is an eternal action that takes place in time.

Jesus is the embodiment of wisdom.

Sharing your faith isn't an activity. It is an identity.

Jesus is our vindication, and He is our validation.

Jesus is our righteousness.

Our culture doesn't need to hear behavior modification about a God of great transformation.

Jesus is our sanctification.

Sanctification: we start to become who God already says we are.

Jesus is our redemption.

We don't fight for redemption. We live from Jesus' redemption.

Why Should We Bring Sexy Back?

1. We are the body of Christ.

Jesus' grace is ever sufficient. His cleansing is utterly complete.
We are forgiven. We are made new.

2. God created sex to be an act of worship between a husband and a wife.

3. God bought us with a price, and we honor God with our bodies.

You are a temple of the living God.

The bloody cross is God's down payment for your life.

How valuable must you be if the living God of the universe bought you!

People in our culture need to hear, "God has seen all you've ever done, all you will ever do, and He went to the cross to buy you anyway."

Becoming a Christian happens in a moment, but learning to grow as a child of God takes a lifetime.

God gives us a new power. The Spirit of God lives in us.

There's only one race—the human race.

God desires for His church on earth to look like His eternal church in the new heavens and the new earth.

God has called us to this beautiful, crazy grace that produces a beautiful people who look different, who are not colorblind but color-blessed.

Crazy grace moves us beyond the treads of well-worn paths of the old to go down the streets of gold toward the new.

In order to build a multiethnic church, you've got to be a servant. You've got to drop your preferences and pick up your crosses.

After the resurrection of Jesus, there was a new ethnicity called the church.

My primary identity is I'm a blood-bought, redeemed, crazy-grace-filled child of God. My allegiance is to Jesus.

It is a blessing to share with people who are different than us.

It's going to take a diverse church to reach a diverse America.

In eternity, God painted a portrait in Revelation 5:9 that every nation, tribe, and tongue would adore Jesus.

Crazy grace turns racists into gracists.

Jesus wants to teach us how to love.

Love Himself comes to live in us and through us.

Christ in me is patient.

Christ in me is kind.

Crazy grace moves us to believe that Jesus has died for everyone; therefore, everyone is of intrinsic, infinite value.

Christ in me does not envy.

When you go on mission, you discover what your gifts are, because gifts are for the purpose of people knowing Jesus.

Christ in me does not boast.

The more we boast in Jesus, the more we become who we are created to be because we make much of God.

Christ in me is not proud.

Humility is not thinking little of yourself. It's thinking more about God than yourself.

Unbelieving people are not looking for perfection. They're looking for humility and authenticity.

Christ in me does not dishonor people.

Love is not conditioned on the response the lover gets.

Christ in me never gives up.
