REMEMBER

A generous person will be blessed—Proverbs 22:9

READ

In your Bible, read Ephesians 4:20–24, 28. Raccoons are known to be thieves; even the marks on their eyes make them look like bandits. But the raccoons of SOERS aren't thieves anymore! That's one of the great messages of the Bible: Jesus can change people! And He doesn't just help people quit doing harmful things; He helps them start doing helpful things. The raccoons quit being takers and started being givers. The best part: Being generous givers makes them so much happier than being selfish takers. Jesus can help you be generous too. But He can also help you be happy doing it. God loves a cheerful giver!

THINK

1. It's easy to be happy when you're the one who is receiving things. But how can giving things away make you happy?
2. It's not hard to give away old toys and clothes that you don't like anymore. Is that really being generous? Can you think of something you could give away that would be truly generous?
3. Can you think of anyone in the Bible who completely changed when they met Jesus? How has Jesus changed you?
